

White Cap[®] Distributes ERTEC's Sediment Control Products in Northern California

Monday, January 9, 2006

Sacramento, CA. January 9, 2006 - ERTEC Environmental Systems recently announced that White Cap[®] Construction Supply will distribute ERTEC's Sediment Control Products in Northern California. "ERTEC has very promising new products. They reduce many problems associated with stocking, transporting, installing and maintaining current sediment control products. And, we're excited about the value that the products bring to our customers," said Rick Leone, National Sales Manager.

Founded in 1976 in Santa Ana, California, White Cap's objective is to create a destination where professional contractors of all sizes can find all the products they need. White Cap has grown to 130 locations across the United States. White Cap carries everything from erosion control products to power tools from all of the leading manufacturers.

White Cap's mission is to be the premier nationwide supplier of construction supplies to the professional contractor by making it easier for contractors to do business. White Cap endeavors to provide superior customer satisfaction through the combination of the best service, product selection and price.

The company offers a wide array of in-stock products including brand-name construction materials, hand tools, fasteners, safety equipment, power tools and equipment, work wear and landscape lighting. White Cap, recently acquired by Home Depot, is the clear leader in this highly fragmented construction supply market.

ERTEC Environmental Systems sells several storm water pollution control products including the Sediment Control Roll. Sediment Control Rolls are an alternative to Fiber Rolls and Silt Fences. The product can improve performance and significantly lower the life-cycle costs for temporary sediment control through longer life, lower maintenance and resistance to crushing and abrasion. The products are sold to construction, industrial and landscaping contractors through construction and landscaping wholesale outlets.

"The addition of White Cap, the leader in construction supply, gives ERTEC access to a vast group of contractors, large and small," said Mr. Jeff Ford, Manufacturing Representative for ERTEC Environmental Systems in Northern California and Western Nevada.
